NTD SWINGS WEST: The first 6-week western tour of the National Theatre of the Deaf was well accepted by both hearing and deaf audiences. The hearing, especially, may have become aware of the potential of the deaf in the world of the theatre. In the central region, the thespians performed in larger cities like Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago as well as in several hearing high schools in various Illinois towns. In Indianapolis, the company went before a packed house during a blizzard. The papers had this to say the next day: "Attendance, estimated at 1,200, may have exceeded that for the multiple showings of the movie, Bonnie and Clyde." (Ironically, the film's director, Arthur Penn is one of the NTD's summer faculty at Waterford).... The troupe was inspired by the famed Tyrone Guthrie theatre in Minneapolis ... After playing St. Louis, the actors and crew left their bus and jetted to the west coast. At a benefit performance in Los Angeles' Mark Taper theatre, they were impressive. Among the Hollywood stars in this top $100 a seat show were: Debbie Reynolds, Marge and Gower Champion, Rosalind Russell and Edward G. Robinson. The benefit's hostess, Nan Fabray invited the company to her home for a cookout. Even cigar chomping Edward G. insisted on having them inside his mansion to show off his priceless art collection!

Wesleyan Univ. in Middletown, Conn. is now engaged in several joint programs with the National Theatre of the Deaf under a Rockefeller grant. Plans call to assemble a faculty to teach the vanishing skills of the theatre such as wig making and fine cobbling — trades ideally suited for deaf craftsmen.

NATIONAL BRIEFS: Fishkill, N.Y.— Last summer, during a swimming instruction class, quick-thinking deaf New York School for the Deaf pupil Vern Bonse, 10, leaped into the pool to save the life of a 12-year old lad with normal hearing who had fallen in. For this, he received the Fishkill Cadets' highest honor: the Battalion Commander's Award. . . . A short time ago at 80 - he found himself talking happily. . . . Paris — The government sponsored Professional Centre used to rehabilitate the blind and severely disabled. Today it will serve the deaf, too, and most of them will be taught typing and data processing.

How many hours a week do you sleep? Who are the most enthusiastic sleepers? Don't know as to the United States. However, a check in London revealed that office receptionists sleep the most. They average 66 hours a week. Policemen sleep 65 hours weekly; postmen, 54; teachers, 63, and sales women in department stores, 62 hrs. British secretaries sleep about 61 hrs. a week in Britain. Those getting along with the least sleep are the bus drivers. They average only 51 hrs. a week.

 Nothing is impossible to the man who doesn't have to do it himself.

JULY-AUGUST, 1968

The NTID: A Closeup

HILE attending a finance committee meeting of the Council of Organizations Serving the Deaf held in Rochester, N.Y. on July 22, Grand Treasurer Al Van Nevel, along with the other members of the committee, had the privilege of being invited to tour the still being constructed relocated campus of the Rochester Institute of Technology which will incorporate into its structure the recently established National Technical Institute for the Deaf.

It was a welcome opportunity to gather first hand knowledge of the progress being made in one of the most promising new developments in the education of the deaf, and our guides, Dr. E. Ross Stuckless, Director of Research and Training for the NTID and Bro. Victor H. Galloway, Educational Specialist in the College of Science for the NTID and a member of our Rochester Division, were quite thorough in their elaboration of the aims and purposes of the NTID and how it is proposed that these aims and purposes will be accomplished.

The tour of the physical plant of the RIT-NTID was quite impressive. In addition to being all new, many of the facilities are provided especially for the deaf and hard of hearing students who will attend the NTID. These facilities, ranging from audio-visual aids to videotapes, are part of a broad system called computerized multi-media instruction (CMI). It is the purpose of CMI to eliminate the communication problem that might arise from integrating deaf students in a basically hearing college. The computer in use for this system is one of the most sophisticated in the country, the adaptations of which just couldn't be listed in the space allowed here.

For all the physical impressiveness of the NTID, still the most remarkable aspect is the consideration being given to the student and his attempt to achieve technical training at the college level. In this respect, no stone has been left unturned. Probably of most significance is the summer institute that is being held for the purpose of orientating the faculty and students to all areas of deafness. During this institute the 45 faculty members and 120 volunteer students will learn manual communication and ways and means by which the deaf student may be aided in his classroom work to overcome the communication problem. The teachers, while not being asked to conduct classes in manual language, will have at their disposal visual aids designed specifically for deaf students and will have the understanding of the problems of the deaf which will allow them to better appreciate the work being done by deaf students. Fellow hearing students also will play an important role. In addition to taking notes and passing them on to the deaf students, the volunteer hearing students will be able to gain social acceptance for the deaf in the basically hearing college. It is already envisioned that deaf students will take an active role in student government and one candidate for student body president has gone so far as to campaign that if elected he will see to it that the deaf students shall be represented in the student council.

A wide variety of specialized technical training will be offered by the NTID at various levels. Appreciating the fact that there may be some students who could not do degree work, the NTID staff has a non-degree program set up. This non-degree program, however, will not detract from the value of the education received as it will be concentrated in a specific area which might not in itself lead to a degree or for which there is no degree offered

On the premise that the student will the prime consideration in the NTID, a very elaborate screening process is set up. This fall's initial class of some 75-100 students reflects the careful selection of the NTID students. Coming from all over the country these students have a variety of aptitudes and backgrounds and are placed, upon acceptance, into areas with which they will be compatible. At least half the students will be from residential schools for the deaf which is not by design but actually as a result of very selective individual screening. In this manner, the screening allows the NTID to accept only those who are capable of doing technical work at the college level.

The preparations being made to insure efficient operation of the NTID with the RIT are most impressive, to say the least, and Dr. Robert Frisina, Vice President of the RIT, should be commended for his paintaking efforts in this direction. His initial staff is very capable and is dedicated to the job at hand.

Lankenau New NAD President

AT the recent convention of the National Association of the Deaf held in Las Vegas, Nevada, Robert O. Lankenau of Ohio was unanimously voted as the new president of the Association. Bro. Lankenau, a member of our Akron Division, took office immediately following the close of the convention and will serve a term of four years.

Elected to serve under Bro. Lankenau were Jess M. Smith, Indiana and Gordon Allen, Minnesota as vice-presidents and Harold Ramger of California as secretary-treasurer. Elected to fill positions on the Executive Board were Frank Turk of Washington, D.C. and Ralph White of Texas.

The Executive Board, meeting after the convention, reappointed Frederick Schreiber of D.C. as Executive Secretary and also appointed Lyle Hinks of Wisconsin to a newly created position of Assistant Executive Secretary.

The NAD delegates voted Minneapolis, Minnesota as the site for the 1970 conclave with Miami Beach, Florida to follow in 1972.

• Whatever I have tried to do in this life, I have tried with all my heart to do well; whatever I have devoted myself to, I have devoted myself to completely; in great aims and small, I have always been thoroughly in earnest.

CHARLES DICKENS

Thank You

RARLY in March all the Division treasurers were called upon to help us prepare the data sheets for conversion to the new IBM Accounting System.

The wonderful cooperation which the treasurers gave us was most heartening. We know that it was tedious work completing the forms, especially for the very large Divisions, but it should be rewarding to them to know that we could never have done the job without them, and also, that they have helped to make their future jobs easier.

To all those treasurers who responded so obligingly to our plea, the Home Office staff would like to express its sincere thanks!

New NTID Appointee

VICTOR H. GALLOWAY, of Rochester Div. No. 52, has been named educational specialist in the College of Science at the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, an operating unit of Rochester Institute of Technology. In his new position, Vic will be the chief administrative and liaison person for NTID within the College of Science and will coordinate all adjunct services for the deaf students in the RIT degree programs.

Prior to assuming his new job, he was a graduate assistant in rehabilitation research at the University of Arizona. Previously he was an adult education specialist at San Fernando Valley State College; senior material and process engineer for Lockheed Missile and Space Company; senior process control engineer with Lockheed Aircraft Corporation; and research chemist for the U.S. Naval Ordnance Laboratory.

Bro. Galloway received his B.S. degree from Gallaudet College, and his M.A. from San Fernando Valley State College. He is a candidate for his doctorate from the University of Arizona.

Students Aiding H. O. Staff

POR the past three months the Home Office has been busily engaged in the process of converting its manual records to an IBM punched card system. Aiding the regular Home Office staff have been three recent graduates of Gallaudet College and five other students who will return to Gallaudet in the fall.

These students and former students have been tremendous help in arranging, sorting and compiling, the necessary papers and forms which conservatively estimated run to about 50,000.

Working with us this summer, they have given the office a truly national flavor as they hail from all points of the map. From Montana, we have Nancy Chop of the Class of 1969. Representing Arkansas is Bette Hicks, also of the Class of 1969, Mary McCray, another impending graduate, claims Virginia as home. Neil Johnson, 1970, is our well tanned Floridian. Lyle Hinks is Wisconsin's contribution. Sidney Pietzsch, a 1967 graduate, comes from the Longhorn State. Helping balance out the geographical distribuution are John Kaleta, a 1968 graduate, and Carole Gresko, 1969, staunch defenders of Illinois.

Thanks to the efforts of the abovementioned, it is probable that the Home Office will be able to begin its IBM operation by the first of the year.

HE best mother in the world is Sister Geneva Lange of Knoxville Aux. No. 143 according to her daughter, Camilla Sue. This 12-year-old lass wrote the winning letter which netted a wonderful Mother's Day weekend for the whole family that included a stay in the penthouse suite of Hotel Andrew Johnson, dining in the hotel's fine restaurant, attending a movie at a theater, and a $50.00 shopping tour.

In the accompanying photo is the entire happy family, (front row) Andy, 7, Bro. Robert, of Knoxville Div. No. 20, Geneva, and Camilla, (back row) Billy, 5, and Wendy, 14. The only member of the family with normal hearing is Andy, who serves as interpreter.

The letter, in a contest sponsored by the Knoxville Journal, was declared the best among the 526 received. It stated: "Why I think my mother is the Best in the World—Because my mother gave to me the food, sleep, and life. My mother is deaf. I am deaf, too. I love my mother. My mother is kind to me and to my sister and two brothers."

A much-deserved honor was bestowed on Brother Boyce R. Wiliams, of Washington Div. No. 46, in a special ceremony in conjunction with commencement exercises at San Fernando Valley State College where he received the first Daniel T. Cloud Memorial Award for his leadership and 35 years of service to the deaf. This award was sponsored by the Leadership Training Program in the Area of the Deaf and will be made annually to an outstanding leader in the area of the deaf.

Bro. Williams, deaf since 17, serves as chief of the Communications Disorders Branch of the federal Rehabilitation Services Administration. He is largely responsible for the sudden total interest and generous federal support for new programs and services to the deaf.

Auta Insurance

N the May-June issue of THE FRAT was published a list of twelve insurance companies which had indicated that they would be willing to insure deaf drivers, each application being considered on an individual basis.

Recently, an enterprising member of our Society, Bro. Lowell J. Myers, an attorney-at-law, contacted numerous insurance companies utilizing the statement on deaf drivers by Judge Sher-man G. Finesilver of Denver, Colorado which appeared in the January-February, 1968 issue of THE FRAT. As a result of Bro. Myers' efforts, twentytwo companies have reassessed their position on the deaf driver and are now willing to insure the deaf driver at regular rates. It should be kept in mind, however, that a good driving record is of prime importance and that an application may be rejected not be-cause of the fact that the driver is deaf but because of a poor driving record.

We are printing below the list previously published along with the additions furnished us by Bro. Myers. While no addresses are given, members are advised to keep this list handy and show it to their agent or broker when shopping around for automobile insurance.

Finesilver, Judge, Denver District Court and Charles D. Billings, secretary of Denver Div. No. 64. Bro. Warshawsky was in Denver as the guest of honor at the Division's 50th Anniversary Banquet celebration held the preceding evening.

Boyce has been with the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare since 1945 after starting out as a teacher at the Wisconsin School, and as an administrator at the Indiana School for 10 years.

Bro. Jefferson R. Lawson, a fully paid-up member of Richmond Division No. 83, was given an exceptional honor when he was presented with a Top Ten Award by the Ruritans, a men's civic service club, last December at a dinnermeeting in Churchville, Va. for his superb work on behalf of the organization.

Among the dignitaries at the dinner were the Pittsburgh Pirates' May as main speaker, and Supt. Joe R. Shinpaugh of the Virginia School for the Deaf.

Bro. Lawson appears to be the only deaf member of this nationally recognized body. He has served as treasurer for three consecutive years and his work has caused the president of the club to remark that Jeff kept the best records of any treasurer he had ever seen.

Real knowledge, like everything else of the highest value, is not to be obtained easily. It must be worked for, studied for, thought for, and, more than all, it must be prayed for.

Not Fooled

A cowboy wearing an enormous flashing gem was asked by an awestruck friend: "Is that diamond genuine?"

"If it ain't," the cowboy drawled, "I sure been beat out of a dollar and a half."

"Boss, I need the raise because of illness in the family. My wife is awful sick of my being broke."

The manager of a department store restaurant returned to his office after a lengthy absence to be upbraided by a customer he recognized as the wife of a local doctor. She complained that she had waited ten minutes at a snack counter without being waited on.

"Madam," he replied icily, "I've been in your husband's office for the last hour and a half—and I had an appointment."—The Far East

"Tell me-who's the real boss in your family?"

"Well, my wife bosses the servantsand the children boss the dog and cat." "And you?"

"Well, I can say anything I like to the geraniums."

He: "Remember, darling? Last night you said there was something about me you could love?"

She: "Yeah, but you spent it all."

A sedate old gentleman was walking along the avenue which was dolled up with lamp posts covered with synthetic snow, false whiskers and colored ornaments. He was taking it all in with a glassy eye when a Christmas tree vendor approached and asked if he's bought his tree yet. The old gentleman nodded, "Yes, and I'm going to have my broker decorate it."

Puzzled, the vendor asked, "Why your broker?"

The old gentleman smiled grimly. "It's the only thing he hasn't trimmed."

Wife to Husband: I scratched the front fender a little bit today, dear. If you want to look at it, it's in the back

A small boy in church with his mother heard the preacher talk on "What Is A Christian?" Every time he asked the question, the minister banged his fist on the pulpit.

"Mama, do you know?" the boy whispered to his mother.

"Yes, dear, now be quiet," she replied.

Finally, when the minister demanded once more, "What is a Christian?" and banged especially hard, the boy yelled, "Mama, tell 'im!"
