Linda Beavert, left, secretary with the Psychology Department, was named "Secretary of the Year" and awarded $500 during a program and reception held for all secretaries on campus last Wednesday, April 21. Anna Fowler (center), secretary with the English Department and Myrtle French, secretary with the Research Institute, tied for second place and each was awarded $200. This is the second year that awards have been presented to give special commendation to outstanding secretaries at Gallaudet.

College tuition costs increase

by Mike Kaika

Until recently, Gallaudet College has been able to hold down tuition increases while other colleges throughout the country have raised theirs by considerable amounts, but for the 1982-83 academic year Gallaudet is increasing tuition charges by $99 per semester.

Effective this fall, tuition charges for full time students will be $492 per semester. Last year's per semester charge was $393. This increase of $99 represents a 25% boost and is the largest Gallaudet has ever raised tuition charges. The College still assumes a substantial portion of the cost of each student's education. All things considered, including various support services, it costs approximately $9,000 per year to educate a student at Gallaudet but the students' cost amounts to about $3,542 (excluding books, supplies, etc.). The College, through federal appropriations, pays the difference.

Additionally, the Board of Trustees has approved a policy to charge all foreign students, including Canadians, 50% more for tuition charges, making their tuition $738 per semester. Room, board and unit fee, which are being increased collectively by about 10% ($1,279 per semester) will be the same for all students.

"Over the past several years when inflation was in double digits, Gallaudet managed to keep its tuition increases at modest levels while other colleges were increasing theirs by much higher amounts," said Dr. John Schuchman, vice-president for Academic Affairs. "This is because Gallaudet was fortunate to receive what it requested from the federal government, but for the current fiscal year the College had to accept a significant decrease in appropriations and it appears that our budget for the next several fiscal years is frozen at this year's level."

According to the 1971-72 College catalog, tuition in that year was $231 per semester and in the 1981-82 catalog, tuition was listed as $393 per semester, which translates to an increase of about four percent annually.

Tuition charges of $492 per semester ($738 for international students) are well below what other colleges charge. For example: Catholic and George Washington Universities charge over $2,000 per semester for tuition alone, University of Maryland charges $592.50 per semester for students who are residents of the state of Maryland and Montgomery Community College (Rockville) charges county residents $375. Students from out of the state of Maryland pay $1,651 (of tuition) at

Elizabeth Drew is last speaker in College's Lincoln Lecture Series

Elizabeth Drew, a regular contributor to the New Yorker and television commentator for Post-Newsweek Stations, will close out Gallaudet's Lincoln Lecture Series on Liberty and Equality for this academic year when she comes to Gallaudet May 4.

Drew will speak about current topics on the Washington scene at 7:30 p.m. in Elstad Auditorium. As with previous lectures, admission is free and seating is available on a first-come, first-served basis.

Tickets can be picked up at the Elstad Auditorium box office April 30 from 3-6 p.m., May 3 from 3-6 p.m. and May 4 from 3-7:30 p.m.

The author of three books

(Washington Journal: The Events of 1973-74, American Journal: The Events of 1976 and Senator), Drew also appears frequently on "Agronsky & Company" and from time to time on "Meet the Press" and "Face the Nation." She was a member of the panel for the first Carter-Ford presidential debate in 1976.

Drew graduated Phi Beta Kappa from Wellesley College. She has worked as associate editor for Writer, writer and editor for Congressional Quarterly and Washington editor for the Atlantic and New York Times Magazine.

The lecture series is sponsored by the Lincoln National Life Insurance Company.

GCAA Charter Day Dinner held

The Gallaudet College Alumni Association held its annual Charter Day Dinner on Saturday, April 17 in the College cafeteria, and 94 persons attended the event.

Dr. Robert Sanderson, current holder of the Powrie Vaux Doctor Chair of Deaf Studies, was the guest speaker.

The theme of the program was "Old Timers," and a number of persons came dressed in the style that was popular in the 1930s and 1940s. Rosalyn Gannon and Joyce Moore were judged as "Best Dressed" women, and David Peikoff and Edward C. Merrill, Jr. won that title for the men's division. Merrill came as Dr. Edward Miner Gallaudet.

The GCAA Board of Directors held its spring meeting on April 16 and all eight board members attended the dinner.

April 14 was "Circus Day with Nancy Reagan" and everyone from the KDES Primary Department and White House wore colorful buttons proclaiming just that. KDES students sat with the First Lady and shared cotton candy and popcorn with her at the D.C. Armory, where they saw the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey Circus. Children from about 15 other disabled groups around the city were also invited to the circus with Mrs. Reagan. The outing was sponsored by the National Committee, Arts for the Handicapped.

Serendipity Library Bits & Pieces

Census publications

by Cathy Dickstein

The Gallaudet College Library was recently invited by the District of Columbia Government and the Metropolitan Washington Council of Governments to participate in the State Data Center Affiliate Program for the U.S. Census Bureau as an affiliate State Data Center.

The purpose of the Affiliate Program is to make Census publications available to the public through such organizations as regional and local planning agencies, chambers of commerce and public and academic libraries. As an affiliate, the College Library will maintain a collection of major Census Bureau reports for the District of Columbia. These reports are to be made accessible to the public and the Library's reference staff will be trained to provide users with assistance in locating and using the Census Bureau data.

The Metropolitan Council of Governments and the D.C. Office of Planning and Development have been jointly designated as the State Data Center for the District of Columbia. The main responsibilities of the State Data Center are to administer the Affiliate Program, distribute Census publications and information regarding new products and services, and to conduct training for the staff of the Affiliates on the use of Census materials.

The College Library has already received the first shipment of Census materials and they will soon be available for public use. These materials include the 1970 Census of Population and Housing; 1980 Population Report, Chapter A; 1977 Economic Censuses, Final Reports; 1978 County Business Patterns; and the 1976 Directory of Federal Statistics for Local Areas and the 1977/78 Update. All of the materials are for the District of Columbia.

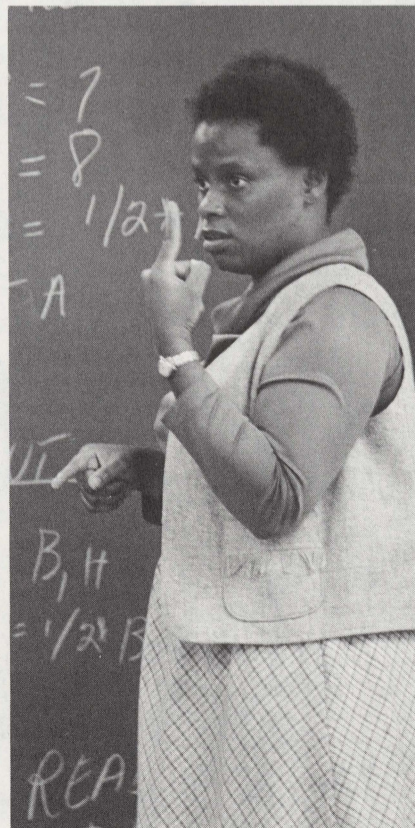

For more information regarding this program or the Census materials, please contact Cathy Dickstein in the College Library.

Faculty Research

Described in this column are research projects that received assistance from the Office of Faculty and Graduate Student Research. For more details on projects discussed, contact Clarence Williams, x5030.

Janice Mitchell, a faculty member in the German Department, recently completed a research project upon which she based her doctoral dissertation in the University of Southern California's Department of Sociological and Philosophical Foundations. The title of her dissertation was "The Relationship of Foreign Language Training to the Written German and Written English of Deaf College Students and the Implications for Teaching the Written Grammars of Spoken Language to the Postsecondary Hearing Impaired."

From the results she obtained, Mitchell concluded that the degree of foreign language training makes a difference in learning standard English for the hearing impaired student. She recommended that the most important structures at the morphological and syntactical levels of the oral language be taught during the first year of language study. For more information, contact Dr. Mitchell at 384-4599.

Free hearing screenings and checks of hearing aids available May 3-6

For the past four years, May has been designated Better Hearing and Speech Month. This concept was developed and is sponsored by the Council for Better Hearing and Speech. The Council consists of 23 organizations, including Gallaudet, which pool their resources to provide public awareness of hearing and speech problems, which represent the nation's number one disability.

Early recognition of hearing loss is important for medical treatment, audiologic intervention, educational and vocational planning and psychological well-being. This is true for both children and adults. In adults, two major causes of hearing loss are aging and noise exposure. In either of these cases, hearing loss may be gradual and the individual may not recognize it as soon as he or she should. Hearing screening programs help individuals to detect hearing loss early.

From May 3-6, the Department of Audiology will be participating in Better Hearing and Speech Month by offering hearing screenings and electroacoustic hearing aid checks for all Gallaudet faculty, staff, students and their families. This service will be offered on a walk-in, first-come, first-served basis in room 121 of Mary Thornberry Building. No appointment is necessary.

Audiologists will be available from 8:30 a.m.-3:30 p.m. for hearing screenings. A hearing screening is a brief check of hearing that indicates the possibility of a hearing loss. Screening is most appropriate for those who want to check to see if they have normal hearing. Screening is not indicated for those with known hearing loss. Those individuals should be seen for a complete evaluation on a scheduled basis.

For those people with hearing aids, electroacoustic checks of the hearing aid will be available. This procedure involves putting a signal through the hearing aid to see if there are any problems with the aid. Common problems are reduced power, distortion and changed frequency response. Checks of hearing aids will be made on a first-come, first-served basis from 12:30-3:30 p.m. If a problem is detected in the hearing aid, recommendations will be given.

In addition to hearing screenings and hearing aid checks, printed materials regarding speech, language and hearing will be available. The staff of the Audiology Clinic hopes that all Gallaudet personnel, students and families will avail themselves of this service and take the opportunity to become more familiar with the clinic. Individuals with questions regarding Better Hearing and Speech Week activities should contact Norma Sines or Patrick Cox in the Audiology Clinic, x5328 voice or TDD.

Workshops for elderly to be held

A workshop on "How to Make the Best Years of Your Life" will be held in Baltimore at the Waxter Senior Center (861 Park Ave.) Monday, May 3 through Friday, May 7. An innovative concept in life planning, the workshop is the first of its kind for deaf adults aged 60 or over in the Baltimore area.

The five-day workshop is being presented by Gallaudet College, Associated Catholic Charities and the Waxter Senior Center. It will include a panel discussion by deaf senior citizens, a Community Services Fair to help workshop participants become familiar with resources available in Baltimore, sessions on money management and health concerns, and discussions of travel, work, volunteer and other opportunities for seniors.

It is estimated that by the year 2000 people over the age of 65 will make up 11.6% of the general population. The workshop was inspired by the belief that the growing number of deaf senior citizens in our aging population should have equal access to educational activities fostering preparation for and improvement of the retirement years.

The workshop is free to deaf senior citizens. For registration or other information, contact Donna Lansman, Waxter Senior Center, (301) 396-1826 voice or TDD.

A Message from the President

A report to the GCAA Board

The Board of Directors of the Gallaudet College met April 16 to address a full agenda. I was privileged to meet with the members of the Board and to submit to them a report on conditions at Gallaudet College. We cannot expect support from our alumni if they do not obtain fair, accurate information and if they are not involved in various activities associated with programs and services offered by the College. Inasmuch as the economic situation is becoming more difficult, I chose to focus my report on the financial picture.

I shared with the Board the three goals for financial support from the federal government. These are (1) to obtain the restoration of the 4% increase of the FY '82 allocation by means of a supplemental request in May of this year, (2) to obtain full funding of our request for FY '83 on which Congressional hearings have already been completed, and (3) to obtain a 10% increase of the current authorized funding level for FY '84 so that we can respond to the anticipated enrollment increases. If these goals are not met, the College will be in a position of refusing admission to qualified applicants.

I also discussed organized efforts of the College to obtain funding from the private sector. The Dana Foundation, by means of a $250,000 grant over three years, has enabled our Development Office to mount a professional search for private funding. Funds from the private sector are beginning to make a difference, exceeding the one million dollar mark in FY '81.

I also explained why the Board of Trustees had approved the establishment of the Gallaudet Educational Foundation. This will be an effort on the part of the College to attract large gifts through an entirely different mechanism. Foundations of this nature have been established by large public universities, such as the University of Maryland, as well as many private colleges and universities. The College is currently identifying persons who will be invited to form the Board of Directors of the Foundation.

Members of the Board of Directors of the GCAA had several questions to which I responded. They were, for example, interested in the relationship of the efforts which would be made by the Foundation to solicit funds for Gallaudet College to their own efforts to do the same. I used the example of how the alumni of the University of Cincinnati work with the University of Cincinnati Foundation in supporting rather than competing with each other. I am most appreciative of the interest and continued support of members of the Board of Directors of the GCAA and their willingness to give their time and energy to the College.

Information Center needs your help

The National Information Center on Deafness (NICD) needs your help in sharing what is happening on campus.

NICD currently receives more than 650 telephone calls and more than 200 requests for information from all over the country. These information inquiries to Gallaudet College and to the NICD cover many areas directly related to deafness and to the programs and services offered throughout the campus community.

As the first contact for many callers to Gallaudet, the NICD wants to provide accurate and immediate responses about deafness and programs sponsored by Gallaudet. You can help by putting the NICD on your mailing lists and letting the center know of any new publications, research projects or seminars—both on and off campus—scheduled by your unit.

The NICD is located in Trailer 6 behind the Washburn Arts Center and can be contacted on x5109, voice or TDD.

Gallaudet to host scouting conference

This summer, Gallaudet College and Pre-College Programs will host the Second National Conference on Scouting and the Hearing Impaired. The conference is being held for persons who want to know more about deafness and who are interested in improving scouting programs for deaf youth.

The conference will be held June 27-29 and registration is $10. Anyone interested in the conference can contact Richard Lytle at MSSD, x5823 voice or TDD.

Persons planning the conference are also interested in talking with Gallaudet students and alumni who have been active in scouting programs before coming to Gallaudet. Through sharing their experiences, they can help improve scouting programs for the deaf. Persons interested in discussing this topic can also contact Lytle at the same number listed above.

The Tortoise and the Hare get ready to take off while others watch in anticipation at the recent performance of THE GREAT COUNTRY RACE. This Children's Theatre production of the Theatre Arts Department was held on campus April 22-24.

MSSD Performing Arts Department presents "Fiddler on the Roof"

The Model Secondary School for the Deaf will present the musical "Fiddler on the Roof" for the enjoyment of both deaf and hearing audiences at 8 p.m. on May 6-9 and May 12-15 in the MSSD Theatre. "Fiddler" will be performed in sign language by deaf cast members with hearing persons speaking and singing the lines.

In addition to the evening performances, there will be a 10 a.m. performance on Friday, May 7 and May 14, and also a 2 p.m. performance on Sunday, May 9.

The entire production is a cooperative effort of more than 100 deaf and hearing cast and crew members from the Washington community and marks the first time that hearing high school students have performed with MSSD's deaf students in a production. "Fifteen students from the Ellington School for the Arts will be acting and singing in the show and it's been a wonderful experience for all the students—hearing and deaf," said Tim McCarty, producer of the musical and MSSD Performing Arts instructor.

The Ellington School students are learning sign language and all the students are learning a great deal about communicating and working together, McCarty said.

Learning their lines in sign language is no problem for the students but learning what it means to be Jewish is a concept sometimes difficult to convey, according to McCarty. Many pre-rehearsal discussions have centered on Jewish culture and the subject of tradition which is a central theme in the show. "We are trying to help the kids understand Jewish dialect and how phrasing and inflection in the voice can convey 'Jewishness.' Then we are trying to transfer the same inflection and phrasing to sign language to convey meaning and character," McCarty said.

Eric Malzkahn, MSSD Performing Arts instructor, translated the script into sign language and is working closely with the students on characterization.

Tickets for the performance are $3 for students and $5 for adults. For reservations, call x5841, voice or TDD. Tickets may also be purchased at the Gallaudet Student Union and at the MSSD box office half an hour before each performance.

Tour of Russia planned

A 15-day escorted tour to Russia is being offered June 9-23 by Gallaudet through its Russian Department. An American sign language interpreter will be on hand daily throughout the tour.

The tour will include visits to Moscow, Kiev and Leningrad. This low-cost travel opportunity to visit Russia is available to faculty, staff, students and alumni of Gallaudet, as well as to all hearing impaired persons and those who work with the hearing impaired.

Finnair Airlines will provide round-trip transportation from Kennedy Airport in New York City. Total cost for the tour is $1,495 and includes all air transportation in Russia, motor coach tours of the cities, first class hotel accommodations (double occupancy with private bath or shower), three meals a day in the USSR, all transfer and luggage handling fees, services of Intourist guides and visa handling fees. Participants must obtain their own passports.

While in Russia, travelers will visit cultural and educational institutions for the hearing impaired and meet deaf

Soviet citizens in all three cities.

To confirm your reservation, a deposit of $150 is required, with final payment due on May 9. For additional information and applications, contact Charles Yeager, chairman of the Russian Department, at x5391 voice or x5387 TDD.

New books available from G.C. Press

Two new books available through Gallaudet College Press may be of interest to faculty, staff and students.

The Multihandicapped Hearing Impaired: Identification and Instruction, edited by David Tweedie and Edgar Shroyer, contains 20 essays relating to multihandicapped hearing impaired persons, including curriculum design, programs and services.

Tales from a Clubroom by Bernard Bragg and Eugene Bergman is a play which focuses on members of a club for deaf persons.

Both books are available at the Gallaudet College Bookstore.

Gallaudet College is an equal opportunity employer-education institution. Programs and services offered by Gallaudet College received substantial financial support from the Department of Education.

Tuition

the University of Maryland (almost triple the amount of a Maryland resident) and at Montgomery, out of state students pay $1,008. About 90 percent of the colleges and universities around the country charge out of state (and foreign) students more than double the tuition charges than for residents within the state.

Per semester charges (tuition, room, board and unit fee) for American students will be $1,771 and for international students will be $2,017. Both of these figures are well below the national average. Most students pay only a fraction of this cost. According to Nancy L. Cowan, director of Financial Aid, approximately 90 to 95% of Gallaudet students received some type of financial aid assistance in 1980-81 which totalled almost $4 million. This is an average of $2,850 per student per year while for this same period, tuition, room, board and unit fee were $2,831 per student.

The data from the Financial Aid office also show that 890 students were on the College payroll as part-time employees and earned a total of $842,606 or an average of $947 per student per academic year. Students work part time in the library, the rathsheller and in many departments on campus. "There is a wealth of financial resources available right on campus," commented Ms. Cowan. "All a student needs to do is seek them out. If they want to apply for financial aid they should come to the Financial Aid office and fill out the appropriate forms. We are here to serve the students."

Women's relay team competes

For the first time ever, the Gallaudet women's relay team competed in the one-mile relay section of the University of Pennsylvania Relays, the oldest collegiate invitational meet in the nation.

Gallaudet competed on April 22 with other small colleges during the first day of the three-day meet. Hundreds of teams from all over the country participated in the event.

Freshmen Joyce Houghton and Wanda Esquibel, sophomore Sandy Phillips and preparatory student Rita Nicklen competed in the 88th running of the Pennsylvania Relays with a time of 4:16.8.

John Parker, head coach of Gallaudet's track team and Bob Alexander, coach of the sprinters, 100-to-800 meters, accompanied the team to Philadelphia.

Feb. energy goal met

Gallaudet's target energy consumption through February of this fiscal year was 65,000 BTUs per gross square foot of occupied space. Actual consumption was 64,414 BTUs.

The target per square foot through March was 78,000 BTUs. Last year we consumed 81,000 BTUs in the same period.

Gallaudet's target is an overall 10% reduction in energy use for Fiscal Year 1982. As we move through spring and summer, the target becomes more restrictive. The increasingly monthly reductions are based on the fact that more opportunity exists to control power and air conditioning.

Leo Cannon III presents a $175 check to Carole Schauer, a representative of Otis House, a half-way house for deaf people. The money was raised at Gallaudet's benefit basketball game April 3, where faculty, staff and students won over WKYS Radio Station. Cannon is now organizing a women's team at Gallaudet, and interested persons can contact him at x5098.

Open Season starts May 3

The Open Season for health insurance will begin next Monday, May 3 and end Friday, May 28. This is the opportunity when all permanent employees at Gallaudet will have the chance to either change to a different health plan or to enroll in a plan for the first time with no strings attached.

In order to help employees understand how the health plans have changed in 1982, a Health Benefits Fair will be held on Friday, May 7 from 2-4 p.m. in the Ely Center Multipurpose Room. Representatives from Blue Cross/Blue Shield, Aetna, Group Health Association, George Washington University Health Plan, Columbia Medical Plan, Health-Plus and Kaiser-Georgetown Community Health Plan will be on hand to answer questions regarding their 1982 coverages.

Employees planning to make changes in their current enrollments or wishing to sign up for the first time can get registration forms during the Health Fair and also at the following locations during Open Season:

College Hall—Personnel Office,

Rooms 7 and B-14

KDES—Room 3400

HMB—Room 152

MSSD—Room 204-C

CUB—M&O Administrative Office

All registration forms must be returned to the Personnel Office in College Hall no later than Tuesday, June 1. Any registration forms dated after May 28 will not be valid for Open Season election. All Open Season changes and elections will become effective July 11, 1982 and the first payroll deduction will be made from paychecks on Aug. 3, 1982.

Advocacy Notes

The ATBCB situation

by Merv Garretson

On Jan. 1, 1981 the Architectural and Transportation Barriers Compliance Board (ATBCB) adopted minimum guidelines and requirements for standards of accessibility and usability of federal and federally funded buildings and facilities.

However, at the July meeting the 11 federal agency members voted in bloc with one public member of the 22-member Board to do an about-face and publish a notice proposing rescission of the minimum guidelines and development of an alternative set. Over 3,300 responses were received overwhelmingly opposing rescinding the previously adopted guidelines. Dr. Merrill filed a letter from the College and I presented testimony on behalf of the National Association of the Deaf before the House Subcommittee on Select Education.

As a result of this strong opposition, the ATBCB Board was forced to withdraw the proposal to rescind. Instead, they agreed to work up a number of amendments as a compromise measure. The modified version is more in line with the guidelines of the American National Standards Institute (ANSI) and represents an attempt to reduce costs by making federal standards somewhat closer to existing ANSI standards.

From our standpoint, one of the unsatisfactory aspects of ANSI standards is that they ignore the communication barriers aspect of the ATBCB mandate, except for a brief section on telephone volume control for hard of hearing persons. Earlier the ATBCB had rejected a motion by David Myers, a deaf member of the Board, to authorize research on communication barriers in order to develop guidelines.

The most recent development in the embattled ATBCB is a recommendation in the FY 1983 budget that this body be dissolved "since the 1982 modifications to the minimum guidelines and requirements for the standards issued pursuant to the Architectural Barriers Act of 1968 will have been completed."
