P.G. COUNTY OPENS PROGRAM FOR DEAF CHILDREN

A program for young deaf children from infancy to age three and their families has begun in the Prince George's County public schools.

The project, which is funded by the State of Maryland, will focus on stimulating language and speech development in hearing impaired children during this critical period through audiological and diagnostic services, home teaching and parent discussion groups.

In addition to the Preschool program at Gallaudet, programs similar to the one established in Prince George's County are offered by the Hearing and Speech Center in Washington, D.C., and in Montgomery County.

For information, contact Ms. Barbara Carney, project coordinator, at 736-5400, ext. 11.

QUERIES ON ACUPUNCTURE

At the present time there are two acupuncture centers in Washington, Acupuncture Center of America and Acupuncture Center of Washington. Numerous inquiries regarding the advisability of acupuncture as a possible treatment for deafness have been received by various departments on the campus.

In an effort to coordinate responding to these requests, it has been agreed that all inquiries be routed to the Department of Audiology and Speech.

G.W. DEVELOPS GRAD PROGRAM IN HIGHER ED

The George Washington University has developed a graduate level degree program for the staff personnel of the American Council in Education and its 38 member associations headquartered at the National Center for Higher Education, One DuPont Circle.

The course work, which leads to a

Master of Arts in Special Studies, is designed to give participants an increased awareness of trends in the fields of higher education and the tools needed to increase the effectiveness of the various associations of which they are a part.

PARENTS COMMITTEE TO MEET

The National Parents Committee, a part of the College's Resources Council, will hold a two-day meeting on the campus this Thursday and Friday. The Committee, whose members are parents of Gallaudet students, will have an opportunity to meet with faculty and staff members at a reception on Thursday evening at the Edward Miner Gallaudet Home. Following an orientation session, the Committee will meet on Friday to discuss in detail its role in the College's development program.

Chaired by Aaron Cox of Lynchburg, Virginia, the Committee is concerned with recruitment of students, furthering better understanding among the nation's employers of the potential of deaf college graduates and to promote a public awareness of the College and its needs to both private and government sectors.
