Faculty/staff give to Alumni House

Although the organized campaign on campus for the Alumni House began the week of Jan. 14, more than $37,000 in gifts or pledges had been received by Jan. 11, 1980. Most of these gifts were offered voluntarily or through informal solicitation. Many thanks to all of these early birds. Some others were discouraged from early giving so that volunteers might experience the pleasure of collecting their gifts.

Officers of the Month chosen

The Department of Safety and Security has chosen Officers of the Month for October and November, 1979.

Keith Downey is being recognized for his extraordinary efforts in the area of crime prevention during the month of October, 1979. Off duty and on his own time, Downey presented a lecture and film to 60 students in Dorm 4 on rape prevention and avoidance. Much valuable crime prevention information was disseminated. Downey's unselfishness, thoroughness and enthusiasm reflect his commitment to serve the campus community.

Billy Holman is being recognized for his outstanding efforts in providing a safe and secure environment at the MSSD complex and his willingness to respond quickly and effectively to emergency situations on campus.

College Council sponsors meetings

The College Council will sponsor a series of meetings during spring semester that will be open to both faculty and staff. The project has the support of both Edward C. Merrill, Jr. and the Central Administration.

Goals of the project are to provide members of the campus community with information about programs, give us the opportunity to hear directly from people involved on new, old and changing programs and to provide a forum within which issues can be raised, questions can be asked and suggestions can be made.

Questions concerning the project can be addressed to Mike Kaika, Dorothy Hamberg, Marcine Thomas or Gina Oliva, the coordinating sub-committee members.

College catalog/phone directory microfiche

The Gallaudet College Library has a collection of college catalogs on microfiche produced by the National Microfilm Library. The collection contains undergraduate and graduate catalogs from most of the domestic institutions of higher education in the United States and its territories, as well as catalogs from foreign countries. The two latest editions (78/79 and 79/80) are located in the Career Corner (northwest corner) on the Library's main floor. A microfiche reader and an index accompany the collection. In addition to having the collection on microfiche, some college catalogs are available in book form on the shelves nearby. Catalogs for colleges and universities in the Washington metropolitan area are kept on reserve at the Circulation Desk.

A collection of telephone directories on microfiche called PHONEFICHE is also available in the College Library. Currently about 25 large cities are included in this collection: Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, Houston, Los Angeles, New York City, Philadelphia and Seattle, to name a few. Both white and yellow pages are available. The microfiche are arranged in alphabetical order by state and then by city. A community cross-reference collection is located on the main floor of the Library next to the COM Catalog and near the Circulation Desk. For additional help ask at the Information Desk.

E. Allen Nowell, assistant chief of Safety and Security here at Gallaudet, has been chosen for inclusion on the 1980 edition of "Who's Who in American Law Enforcement," published by the National Association of Chiefs of Police. The directory is published every three years. The 1980 edition is expected to be completed by summer and copies made available to the Library of Congress, State Historical Library and to more than 23,000 police and sheriffs departments in the United States.

A Message from the President

The visual arts on Kendall Green

Art takes many forms. We find it in drama, in poetry, in music, in literature, in sculpture and in many other forms. Art is a mirror of mankind, representing his feelings and his thoughts. As such, art must always be an important part of the general education of all persons. To know art is to understand the world and perhaps yourself a little better.

Over the past two years, more attention has been given to the visual arts throughout Kendall Green. Our first real breakthrough came when the Virginia Steele Scott collection in Pasadena, CA permitted five of their best sculptures to be placed on loan here. The loan included three sculptures by Epstein, one by Umlaut and one by Bourdelle. Since that time we have had Jasper Johns prints on display, colorful cut-outs by Matisse and one of Georgia O'Keeffe's oils. At the MSSD, there is currently a display of historic photo-graphs from the Minneapolis Institute of Arts. We have also had on display there a beautiful acrylic sculpture entitled Dodecker, which was done by Bruce Beasley and was placed on loan with us by a friend in California. Yes, we are off to a good start, but there is much more

By means of a grant from the National Endowment of the Arts, Gallaudet College has commissioned a major sculpture from one of America's best known artists, Jules Olitski. This is a large steel outdoor sculpture which has already been completed. It is so good that it will be placed adjacent to the new East Wing of the National Gallery until it is ready to be moved to Kendall Green. It will be on the northeast corner of the new Learning Center where it will be passed by a walk going between Hall Memorial Building and the Hughes Gymnasium.

Gallaudet College has also purchased a large acrylic piece molded by Bruce Beasley, similar to the one now on display at the Model Secondary School for the Deaf. In all probability this beautiful sculpture will be placed in the new Learning Center.

Is this all? No, there is more! Before long we will have an opportunity to see a beautiful, rich watercolor by Millard Sheets. This will hang in the MSSD lobby area where the Georgia O'Keeffe Red Poppy was before. We will also have a series of Mexican prints which will reflect the culture of our Latin American friends.

We hope that art on Kendall Green will increasingly become an open door to the wonderful museums and galleries in the Washington, DC area. But more than that, we want Kendall Green to be a part of the rich culture of this city. In other words, in the near future we hope that people will be visiting us to see very stimulating modern art. As the art of our times is an expression of feelings and thought, our visitors will also learn about the dimensions of our intellectual interests. They will, we hope, learn more about the richness of our academic life.

MSSD student writes from England

An MSSD student, 19-year-old Appolinaria Easley, is participating in a year-long experimental international student exchange program. Easley is spending the 1979-80 academic year at the South Thames College in London, England. The following are excerpts from a letter she wrote to Robert Mobley, principal of MSSD:

Dear Mr. Mobley:

Since you are the principal of the School, I am addressing this letter to you.

I'm safely at home, here in England. I'm happy and proud to have this honorable opportunity to experience living in another country, adapting to a different culture with a wonderful family

Let me introduce my family. The Goldsmith family is very happy, private, concerned, honest, humorous, part-time librarian and an honourable secretary of the National Deaf Children's Society. My father, Rainer, is a doctor and teaches at the University of London (physiology professor). My brother, Jonathan is 17 years old. He's likely to be known as an athlete and humorist. Jonathan is a student in school. My sister, Sherona, is deaf like me. She's 19 years old and has enrolled at South Thames College to study sociology while at the same time working full time at a research department where humane experiments are done on mice

Lipreading these English people is very similar to lipreading a foreign language. I have made much improve-

I myself was astonished to hear that I would be lipreading in class at a college, but I am no longer. I will do as the English do, and have always done. Since I am deaf, I'll have to experience and want to experience the frustrations that these deaf people have to go through. If they can pass, perhaps I can, too. It will be extremely difficult, but, ah, it shall be a challenge. If anything goes wrong I can handle it so please don't be concerned about my school plans . .

Farewell with love, Appollinaria

MSSD participates in the International Student Exchange Program sponsored by the American Field Service. This summer MSSD student Danny Hines spent the summer in Australia. Currently, MSSD is involved in short domestic exchanges in the United States on the high school level. These exchanges vary from one week to one semester in length. For more information, contact Nancy Strizver, coordinator of the program, at MSSD.

Ogoke is presently a graduate student here at Gallaudet and will receive his MA in May in Business Administration, with specialization in computer information and application information and application.

Verna Domich has also joined the A/PR staff as secretary, replacing Debbie Staffin. Domich has been a part-time employee in this office from time to time in the past and we'd like to welcome her as a full-time employee.

Beach is presently a doctoral student in the Institute for Child Studies/Human Development at the University of Maryland and was formerly a career development specialist here with the Counseling and Placement Center.

Historical Notes

by Francis C. Higgins

In the fall of 1902, the College correspondent for the old Silent Worker, now the Deaf American, reported that on the opening of the 1902-03 academic year in the middle of September, the total enrollment at Gallaudet College was 90 students, including 30 coeds. Fifteen teachers, three of them females, made up the faculty.

One day in September, classes were suspended to permit the students to hike down through fields and over dirt roads to Pennsylvania Avenue to watch the parade of the G.A.R. Encampment — the Grand Army of the Republic. About 30,000 soldiers who had fought in the Civil War (1860-64) passed in review. Other highlights of the day were the exhibitions of fire dancers, tightrope walkers, acrobats and, in the words of the correspondent, "fireworks of the grandest sort."

October saw the election of new officers of the Kappa Gamma Fraternity which had been established only the previous year and of the O.W.L.S., now the Phi Beta Kappa Sorority, which came into existence in 1892, making it the oldest existing Greek letter organization on Kendall Green.

A cloud of gloom settled over the campus on the last Friday of October when the faculty decreed that henceforth there would be no more football games that season! The whole student body was thunderstruck by this announcement.

The ban was the result of a prank on the part of some of the men students. On a previous Friday evening, all the chairs in Chapel Hall were removed to the stage in the rear of the Hall (now the Alumni and Public Relations Office). The pranksters hid the Bible which customarily rested on the lectern on the speaker's platform at the front of the room. In addition, those unlucky enough to be standing in the stairway well under the skylight in College Hall were deluged with a "shower bath."

The faculty did not take kindly to all of these acts of capriciousness. President E. M. Gallaudet summoned the five class presidents to his office in College Hall (now the office of the business manager) and urged them to have the disturbers confess their abominable deeds. But this was in vain

The Gallaudet College Athletic Association (for men students only) through a committee of five, forwarded to the faculty a petition, requesting a reconsideration of the ban against football. Again it was to no avail; a second appeal suffered the same fate.

The Athletic Association (which had changed its name from the Kendall Athletic Association in 1895) lamented the action of the faculty since the suspension of football would result in the loss of much needed revenue from the games with no funds to begin the baseball season.

Lastly, the cessation of football meant the abandonment of the annual dance in honor of the team. Nevertheless, the College and the students survived the

With the loss of football, the men students turned to another activity to expend their energy. A Golf Club was organized with four holes placed on the west campus. A basketball team was organized by the coeds, long before there was a men's team!

In November, plays were given on the small stage in Chapel Hall by the Jollity Club (an organization established for women students in 1895) and the Saturday Night Dramatic Club, two of the most popular student societies on campus. Chapel Hall was also the scene of lectures given by male members of the faculty at intervals throughout the academic year. Another organization, the Literary Society, held its biweekly Friday night meetings in the Lyceum, a large room on the third floor of College Hall. The highlight of one program was a debate on the question: "Resolved that the power of the United States will eventually decline as did that of other nations." The affirmative side was victorious. The Society continued to expend 75% of its funds to enlarge its library of popular books.

The Christmas holidays lasted from Dec. 24 to Jan. 5. Those who remained on campus were invited to two social events arranged by the young ladies of the College. On the day after Christmas, President and Mrs. Gallaudet hosted a reception in their home in honor of the coming marriage of their son, Edson, to the daughter of a Missouri senator. Another highlight of the holiday was a public address by a member of the
